Scaling Up Assessment for: John CEOExec
May 1st 2026

PREFACE

Dear John,

Congratulations! You are now the owner of your own personalized ScaleUp Assessment report. With this report you will gain a better understanding of how well prepared you are for Scaling Up, how you and your company compare to your peers and what your priorities may be. To reach the 'next level' you now have the choice of using the Scaling Up book, implementing a growth program or working with a coach. Ultimately, this report will work as a guide and input towards your personal growth path. John CEOExec, you can use this report as a guide and as input for your personal growth path.

The assessment has been predominantly devised utilizing the Scaling Up / Rockefeller Habits 2.0 methodology, alongside academic growth models and organizational development theories. We have received input from many seasoned growth entrepreneurs, coaches, mentors and academics. We hope and believe you will be positively surprised by the number of Scaling Up insights throughout this report. We would highly recommend repeating this assessment annually, in order to keep track of your progress.

I wish you many great insights. Enjoy the report and keep scaling!

TABLE OF CONTENTS

As the diagram suggests, all four areas (People, Strategy, Execution, Cash) are tied together and impact each other. You want to pay particular attention to the area that precedes your lowest score i.e. if your lowest score was Strategy the root cause could be People.

INTRODUCTION

Dear John CEOExec, this report will show findings in comparison to your peer group. Your peer group being companies that are of a similar size and in the same organizational phase.
Our understanding, however, is that almost all organizations undergo the same phases and challenges. It's usually when those challenges have been accomplished, with the right people in the right seats, implementing a clear strategy and execution design, with sufficient funds and ideal leadership that the organization is ready for further growth and Scaling Up.

Now let's turn to you. You are 65 years old, have been an entrepreneur for 25 years, have a 12 -year-old company. Your company is active in Other services. You have thus gained more entrepreneurial experience outside this company. You have 2 partners. This usually makes doing business easier, if you at least agree on the long-term goals and have a clear division of activities. You have 12 permanent employees in service and 2 temporary employees on contract. You have a sales goal of 14 million for this year. You have a healthy ratio between sales and number of employees. But perhaps (a part of) sales is based on trade sales.

As indicated, and given the number of employees, you are probably in the Organization phase. This current phase requires the development of further management processes. You as entrepreneur / employer are progressively becoming a manager. Maybe you struggle with the different hats you are now wearing confusing your role and various focus areas. Functional responsibilities (HR/Marketing/Sales/Operations) are often the entrepreneur's secondary functions, or an employee's sub-task. Creating a scalable organization (back office, product, etc.), with a firm, non-flexible structure is a priority. Often the sales position requires development as it depends heavily on the entrepreneur self. A fun but extremely busy phase of your business development.

For this year, your growth objective is 22% growth. For next year, your objective is 11%. You have a strong growth ambition for the year ahead. Other entrepreneurs within your peer group have an average growth ambition of 39.5%. You will get 10 % of your revenue from abroad. A part of your total sales is already comprised of international sales. That's good. This may be the right direction for continued growth.

What is the ScaleUp Score? The ScaleUp Score is based upon and calculated using all assessment items, including ambition and past growth. You gain bonus points if you perform well on challenges that rank highly in shaping your future growth. The maximum score is 100.

John CEOExec, your current ScaleUp Score is 73.

Your estimation: 75. The average Score for comparable companies is 53.1. So 11% of comparable companies score higher. As a (potential) growth company you are doing extremely well and are perhaps an example for others! However, in order to reach the next phase, there is still room for improvement, which is detailed in the following growth report.

YOUR PROFILE

We begin with an overview on the main sections. The score is a weighted average of the questions per section. Your results are compared with your peer group.

	CEO score	Prev avg	Peers	Dev from previous	Dev from Peers
People	7.2	3.1	6.1	+4.1 ▲	+1.1 ▲
Your Employees	5.9	2.8	5.9	+3.1 ▲	0.0 ●

Your Leadership	8.1	1.6	6.1	+6.5 ▲	+2.0 ▲
Internal Communication	9.3	1.2	4.6	+8.1 ▲	+4.7 ▲

Internal communication and Finance and cash rank highest. People and Strategy rank lowest.

What are Peers? Peers are companies with a comparable size who have preceeded you in taking the Scaling Up Assessment. The database contains thousands of other growth companies.

In comparison to your peers, your scores for Internal communication and Leadership team are relatively good. However, People and Scalability, technology and innovation show a lower than average score.

PEERS AND COMPARISONS

Below you will find a comparison between outcomes in the ScaleUp Score between you and other entrepreneurs. You will find the average scores of entrepreneurs with specific characteristics (growth, company age, having a mentor, reading management books, the gender of the entrepreneur and a selection of companies in your own industry). You might stumble upon some interesting findings.

People

PEOPLE

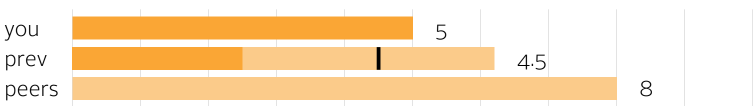
People - without a doubt the key to success within your organization. Every management book, academic study and personal story relays the same message.
So, in your case John CEOExec, let's ask that key question: Are all your employees happy and engaged in the business? And would you 'rehire' all of them?

The success and scalability of your organization is mainly determined by the success that you have recruiting, training, involving, motivating and growing the best people you can find. And this can never be based on luck. Real success is based upon a philosophy around people, core values, the company culture, introduction program, continuous training and reward.

Note on reading the tables on the following pages

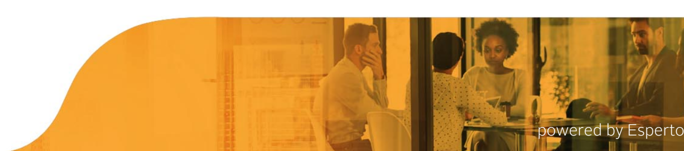
In the team score, the dark bar is the lowest score, the light bar is the highest score. The black stripe is the average score of the leadership team members. The number is the average score.

Example



Companies that nail this are usually the winners in their industry. Let's take a look at how you compare:

The biggest deviation from your team is in Employees know core values, Open culture and High staff retention

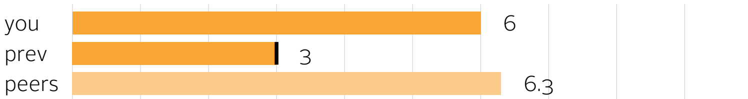


People

YOUR EMPLOYEES

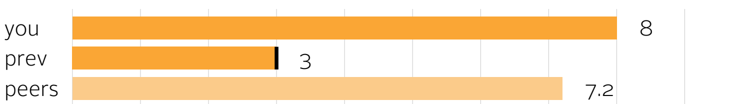
The average score for this section is 47.3. Your average score is 47. Therefore, on average you are doing under your peer group.

Effective recruitment process



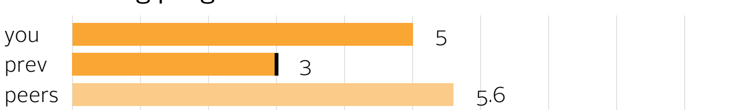
In order to grow, you continuously need new - and good - people. This is often one of the most important challenges for a growth entrepreneur. You indicate that when it comes to finding new employees you find this difficult. Ultimately, this is a matter of process, attention and time, often especially on the part of the entrepreneur. How much time do you spend on this? More than one day per week?

High staff retention



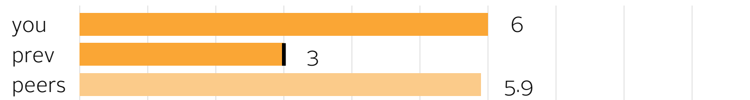
Your employee turnover is low. Unwanted turnover is often a sign that processes, strategy or management are not in order. It takes an enormous amount of money and effort to continually find and train new employees. This is hardly a problem for you. That's a good sign. Keep a close eye on this and hold exit interviews with people who leave.

Onboarding program



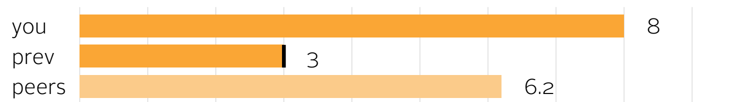
Employees do not receive a comprehensive onboarding program at your company. This will really become necessary with a company of your size. A well-thought-out onboarding program will be an enormous help to employees with regard to learning their jobs, becoming familiar with the company's core values and getting to know their coworkers. It will also help with scaling up your company. It might be good to start taking steps toward this now.

Measuring employee satisfaction



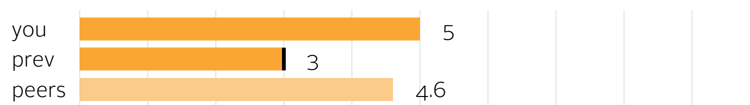
You are don't yet properly measure employee satisfaction. That's understandable with a company of your size. You usually know quite well what's going on. This may be something for the next phase.

Positive about re-hiring employees

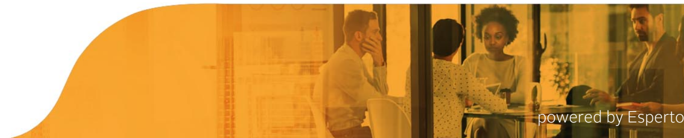


You would not hire all of your current employees again. That's not illogical. Sometimes the company changes so fast and employees cannot continue on. But do you already have a plan? Often you know something like this for a long time but postpone difficult decisions.

Every employee has a training plan

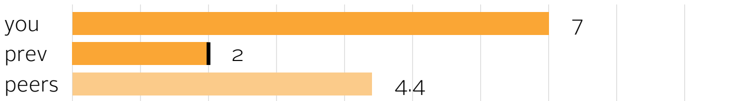


Management thinker Tom Peters stated in his latest book 'one of the greatest responsibilities of an employer nowadays is the continuous development of employees'. In fast growing companies, roles are continuously changing, the need for training and education is therefore imperative. In your phase you might want to start thinking about bringing it up to par.



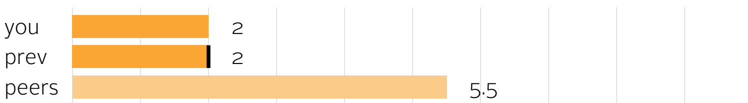
People

Outsourcing / Offshoring operations



You are active with offshoring or outsourcing, this strategy is completely depending on your product/service, cost and scaling strategy.

We apply flat-management or self-steering/organizing teams



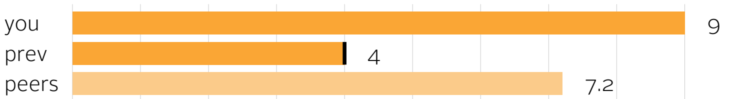
You have not implemented new management models, when things work for you, don't change.

People

COMPANY CULTURE

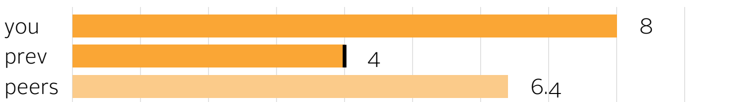
The average score for this section is 31.4. Your average score is 42. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

We have Core values



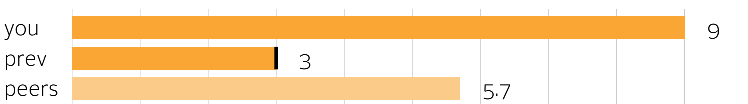
Core values are the internal 'rules of the game'. It's essential to have absolute clarity on this if you start or continue to grow rapidly. In your phase it's necessary to have a clearer picture on the core values, especially if you regularly hire new people. You have them, and you are communicating them effectively, which is great. What do you do when employees appear not to be conducting themselves according to these values?

We have focus on customers' needs



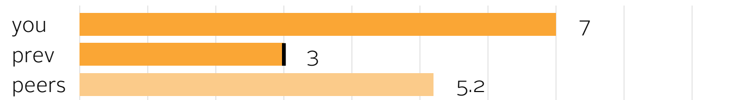
Growth often creates increased management attention to internal matters, employees, new premises, computer systems, etc. The most rapidly growing and successful companies keep a sharp focus on the continuously (changing) needs of the customer. You have already gotten far; keep it up!

Employees know core values



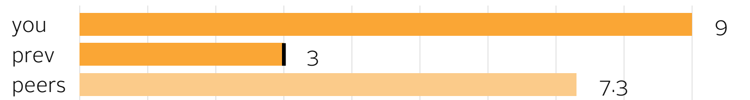
You have formulated core values, and your employees know all of them well and act accordingly. That's really a job well done. Keep this very clear when you continue to grow into the next phase.

We are transparent

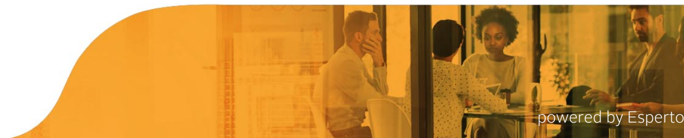


Transparency of information (about customers, sales, goals, growth, etc.) produces greater employee involvement. In addition, it often prevents internal "politics". You have already achieved reasonable transparency, which is good. Maybe you can increase this transparency even more by examining what information you want to share.

We have a positive and healthy culture



"Culture eats Strategy for breakfast" is a famous quote from management guru Peter Drucker. The outside world is changing rapidly, but a positive and healthy culture in which employees take responsibility, think along and always act in the interest of the company is therefore an enormous "asset". You still have a manageable size and you have a strong and healthy culture. That is very valuable! Make sure to hold on to these as you continue to grow.



Strategy

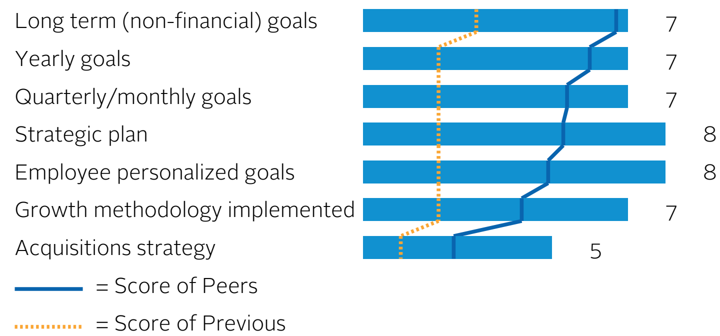
Articulating a clear and differential strategy, supported by a strong core culture that can deliver on the brand's promises, is the key for any company that wants to scale up. So how do you know if you have this industry dominating strategy? Sustainable top-line revenue growth and an increasing gross margin are the two key financial indicators. If you don't have a killer strategy your company will slowly face continuous pricing pressures as the market commoditizes your products and services.

John CEOExec, to have such a strong and effective strategy, it is key that the leadership team has a system and process to devote time and attention to this. A strong strategy needs a very clear and compelling vision and long term goal (BHAG). It needs to be specific and clear on which clients you want to service, how you will be unique and that your competences are clearly aligned with that goal. You then need clear measureable (non financial) yearly and quarterly goals. And a process needs to be in place to review and discuss trends and information from employees, clients and the market in general. Information on competition, technologies and potential disrupters needs to be part of the periodic strategic assessment.

And a strategy works best when all employees know it, understand it and are motivated by it.

Let's look at your results.



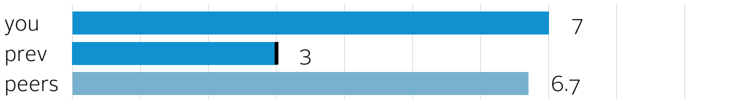
The biggest deviation from your team is in Strategic plan, Employee personalized goals and Yearly goals

Strategy

GOALS AND STRATEGY

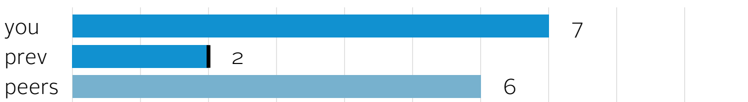
The average score for this section is 34.9. Your average score is 49. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

We have formulated a long term (non-financial) goal



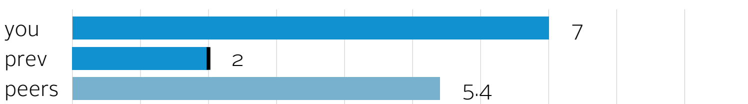
You have already come far with the formulation of your long-term goal. That's great, because a long-term goal provides direction and context and above all motivation for all employees. Companies that do this effectively are at an enormous advantage. Good luck formulating your goal.

We have formulated yearly goals



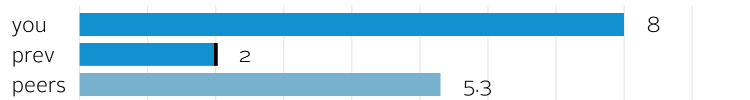
You are already doing a good job of formulating measurable annual goals. That's good news. The clearer and more measurably you formulate your goals (both financially and organizationally or with regard to product or market development), the higher the chance that you will also achieve those goals. This will have a clarifying and motivating effect and ensure growth.

We have formulated quarterly/ monthly goals (other than financial goals)



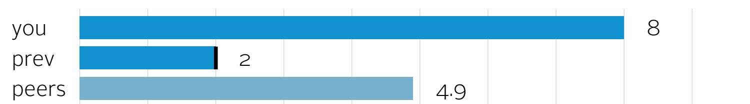
You have already come far with measurable monthly or quarterly goals. That's great, because monthly or quarterly goals give you guidance and direction and ensure that you will achieve your annual goals. Try making this into a regular process.

We work with a strategic plan



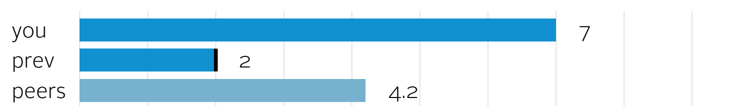
You have already come far with working with a business plan; that's good. Establishing your goals, strategy and action plan can bring about a lot of clarity and teach you to anticipate certain challenges. When should you hire someone? What will the marketing strategy be? You have to make many difficult choices; a complete overview and plan will help you with this.

Each employee has personalized goals



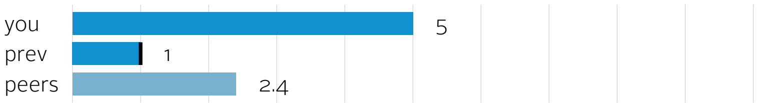
You have already come far with implementing personal goals; that's good. Team goals and personal goals are the next step in working efficiently. This creates clarity, commitment, personal responsibility and motivation. Good luck with your continued implementation.

We have implemented a growth methodology



You are actively implementing a growth methodology. Good work! You have the perfect company size to fully implement such a growth system. This will create a strong foundation for your future scaling up.

We have an active acquisitions strategy



You are somewhat active with acquisitions, that seems illogical for the company your size.

Execution

EXECUTION

Execution is, in many organizations, the biggest challenge. Where most entrepreneurs have a natural passion for clients, product development and innovation, many of them lack the skills and intrinsic motivation for a flawless and scalable execution. Execution and operations are broad areas and its success is dependent from many factors. But let us first distinguish leadership and management. As the entrepreneur of the organization, the focus lies on leadership, with the key objective being emotional involvement in the long and short term vision of the company across all employees. Management however is focused on process. The right people doing the right things right. And do all processes run without drama and drive industry-leading profitability? The entrepreneur does not have to be the person to manage this. An operations director, COO, or well functioning management team are, in many situations, the critical people to get this right.

Execution success is dependent on many factors. A well functioning leadership team, with a disciplined process and rhythm for prioritization and goalsetting. Clear KPIs, measurement systems, a process for employee and client feedback. Automation and digitalization of primary and secondary processes and so on.

We have put the sales and marketing function also in this chapter, as we see the systematic organization of these processes as part of the execution.

OK, let's see how you scored:

The biggest deviation from your team is in Weekly management meetings, Head of sales not entrepreneur and Measuring performance

LEADERSHIP TEAM

The average score for this section is 18.1. Your average score is 34. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

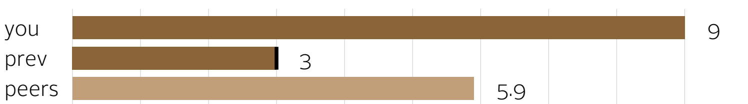
Tasks are properly allocated

You are already doing well with assembling a leadership team. This will help you create more involvement and make the company less dependent on you. Make sure you get a good team together.

We have weekly management meetings.

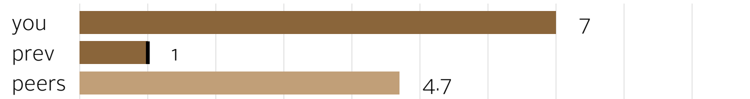
You have regular weekly meetings with your leaders. That's great! That's one of the building blocks to properly manage your growth.

We have periodic strategic sessions.



Your longer-term planning is in order; that's a good start for accelerating growth.

Leadership team receives regular training



Most leadership team members get training or education from time to time. That's a good start. After all, when your organization is growing rapidly and therefore constantly changing, it is important - even at smaller organizations - for everyone to continue learning.

Execution

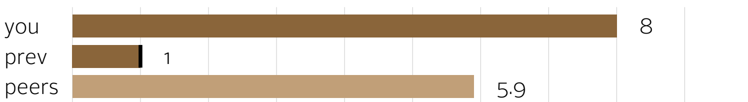
OPERATIONAL PROCESSES

The average score for this section is 27.9. Your average score is 40. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

Our goals are translated into clear KPIs

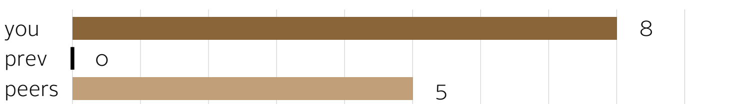
You have already gotten far with making your goals measurable. That's great; this is an important step towards creating personal accountability and professionalizing processes. This includes numbers of leads, received applications, IT development, etc. This can be especially important if you grow, in order to keep everything under control.

We use real-time data to measure our performance



You have already gotten far with creating accurate data for guiding your company. That's great. Keep thinking about how this system can continue to provide you with relevant information next year as well.

We grow with limited mistakes, errors and problems

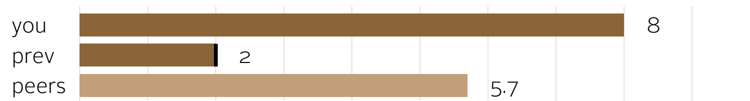


Few things go wrong. Do ensure that your processes also run flawlessly if you start to grow. This is not often the case.

We measure customer satisfaction

You have already gotten far with measuring your customers' satisfaction. That's great. Try to "institutionalize" this process and see what you can improve every day, week or month.

We have systematic processes for continuous improvement



You are already active in the area of quality management. That's good. This will help with the scalability of the organization in the face of continued growth.

Execution

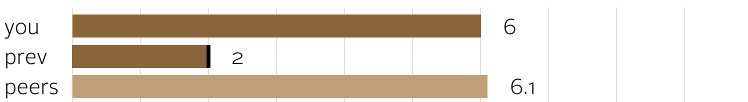
SALES AND MARKETING

The average score for this section is 31.9. Your average score is 38. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

We have an effective lead generation process

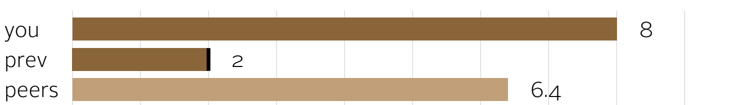
You have already gotten far with a lead generation process. This is a good initiative, as this will be essential for continued growth.

Sales achievement



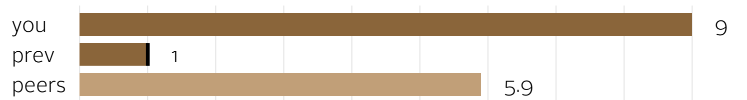
Having and achieving targets is, of course, the basis for business success and growth. At successful companies this correlation is no coincidence. The sales process will often consist of a combination of targets, bonus schemes, lead generation as well as weekly meetings, coaching, training, motivational sessions, etc. It might be good to think about how you can improve this at your company.

Weekly sales meeting



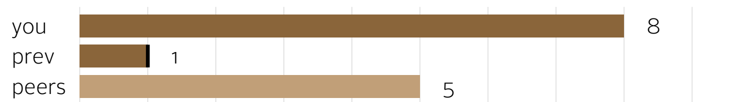
You have already gotten far with a disciplined sales process. A weekly sales meeting in which successes as well as setbacks and lessons learned are shared is an important part of the success of fast-growing companies. Often there are also one-on-one meetings with individual sales reps - if applicable. This is very important for making your growth scalable.

Head of sales is not the entrepreneur



You have made someone else responsible for sales. This seems like a good choice, since now sales is no longer "an additional task" for you as an entrepreneur. But be careful! Your best salesperson may not necessarily be a good (sales) manager.

We have an effective PR/communication strategy



Nowadays sales and marketing strategies are usually accompanied with an effective content-based communication strategy. You are active with this strategy. Well done, this might create growth opportunities.

Execution

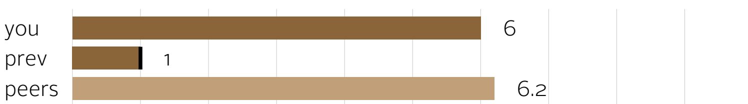
SCALABILITY, TECHNOLOGY AND INNOVATION

The average score for this section is 39.6. Your average score is 46. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

Most processes are automated

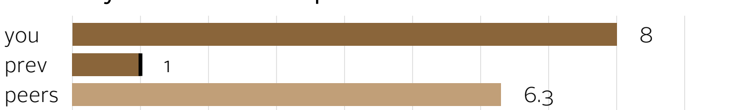
In order to scale, smart application and linking of information technology is essential. Sales, marketing, project management, production, human resources, reporting, etc. This gives structure and clarity, prevents mistakes and makes growing a lot easier. A lot of processes are already being supported by automation at your company. That's great. In the next growth phase, you should also start thinking about integration of the systems.

Systems prepped for growth



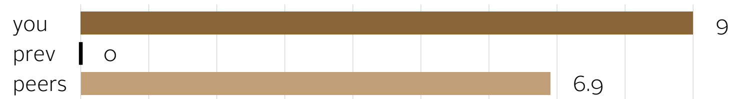
If you grow, a lot changes at the same time: systems, structures, people, processes, etc. It helps a lot when your systems can handle this growth. Otherwise it's sort of like changing the tires while driving!

Better systems than competitors



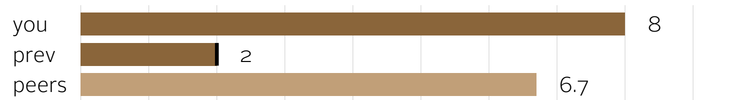
Many fast growers have invested in information technology systems that help them be better, smarter, more efficient and more market-oriented than their competitors. It looks like you pay the same attention to IT systems. That's promising! How can you continue to exploit this advantage?

Knowledge on latest technology



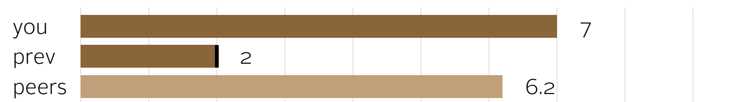
As an entrepreneur, you always have 1001 focus areas. You keep a good eye on technological developments that could enormously affect your business model or company efficiency. This is a safe situation. No surprises.

We are more innovative than competitors



In this world, where developments are super fast, you can quickly be made less relevant by a competitor if you don't pay attention (for example, by focusing too much on internal issues). You have a good focus on innovation. Keep this up, even when you are growing.

Our business model is disruptive



You have a somewhat disruptive business model. That is gold. Speed and scaling up are the things that now matter most.

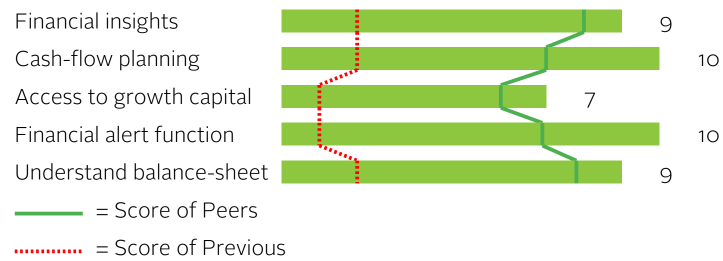
Cash

FINANCE AND CASH

Growth sucks cash. This is the first law of entrepreneurial gravity. Yet many company leaders pay more attention to revenue and profit than they do to cash. And usually a company needs to be in severe cash crisis before predictive systems are implemented and the business model is optimized to be cash rich.

So the key question is: Do you have consistent cash sources, ideally internally generated, to fuel business growth?

Let's see how your are doing compared to your peers:



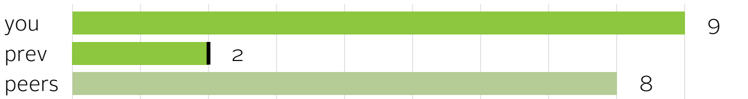
The biggest deviation from your team is in Financial alert function, Cash-flow planning and Financial insights

Cash

FINANCE AND CASH

The average score for this section is 39. Your average score is 45. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

Real time financial insights

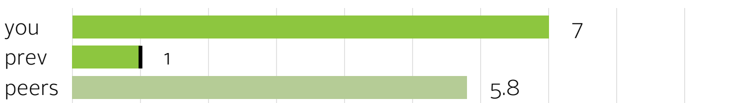


You have a good picture of sales and costs. No surprises for you. Compliments.

Up-to-date cashflow planning

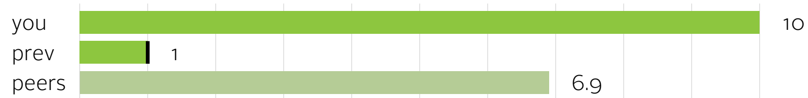
You have a perfect picture of your own cash flow; congratulations. This allows you to grow safely.

Access to growth capital



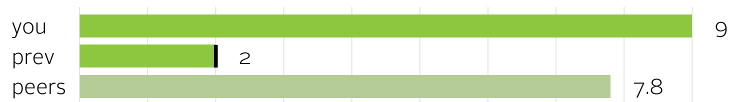
You have reasonable access to growth capital. That's encouraging, especially if you want to grow. Growth always gobbles up cash. Also think about all the alternatives, such as friends/fools/family, the bank, factoring, SME bonds, crowd funding, angel investors, private equity, Government Funding, etc.). There are a lot of service providers who can help you with this.

Financial alert function



You indicate that your "early warning system" for financial parameters is perfectly in order. The faster you can intervene or take measures, the better.

Leadership understands balance sheet



Reading and understanding a balance sheet appears to be a tricky thing for many entrepreneurs. But not for you. You understand that a balance sheet can be a smart blueprint that can expose the dynamics and growth potential behind your company.

YOU

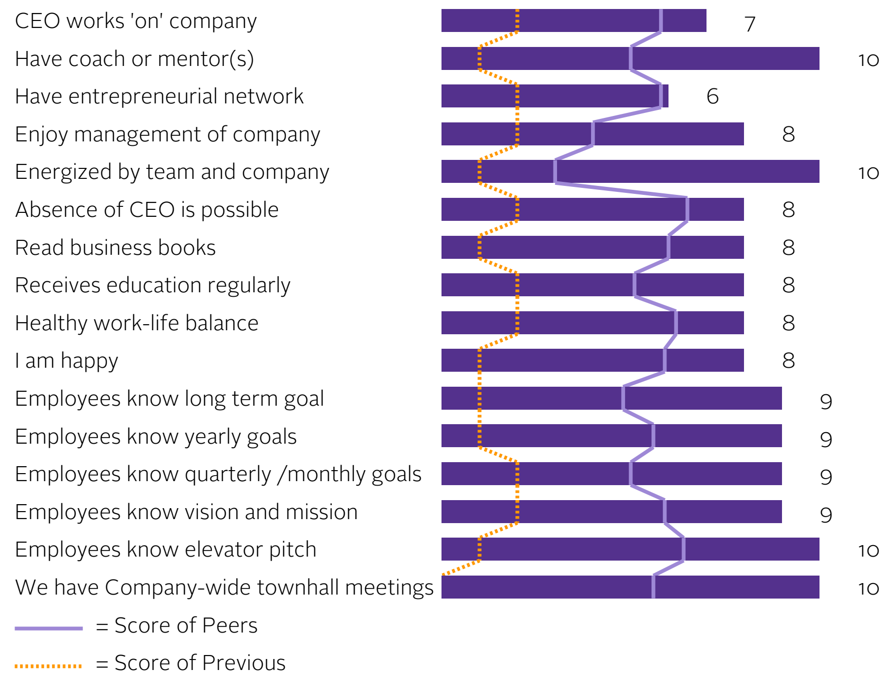
Peter Drucker nailed it: "The Bottleneck is always on top of the bottle". We mentioned that people are the most critical factor in defining a company's success. We lied. It is, in fact, you, the entrepreneur, founder and leader. Therefore, the responsibility lies with this person in recruitment, motivation, training and overall involvement ensuring the business reaches a higher level.

In other words, your ambition level, energy, speeches, involvement and example behavior are the real key to scaling up. Interestingly, your behavior needs to adapt to cater for each new organizational phase. This requires growth and development from you, as the leader too. Continuously identifying what the organization needs from you. This starts with moving from working 'in' your company to working 'at' your company and usually ends with making sure that you let your professional management run the operations so you can build the organization even further.

Within this process one of the key areas of success is the level in which you involve your employees in the company vision and goals. Hence why we stress the importance of internal communication.

To continuously grow as a leader is challenging. Having a mentor or coach can be extremely beneficial in setting you on the right leadership development trajectory. Successful leaders are happy, have a good work-life balance, read a lot and learn from other entrepreneurs. Note, it is about the decisions you take, not the time that you put in.

John CEOExec, let's look at your results. We see that you have 25 years experience as an entrepreneur and that you have 2 partner(s) in your business.



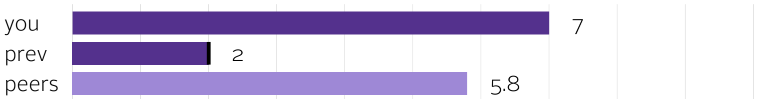
The biggest deviation from your team is in Have coach or mentor(s), Energized by team and company and Employees know elevator pitch

You

YOUR LEADERSHIP

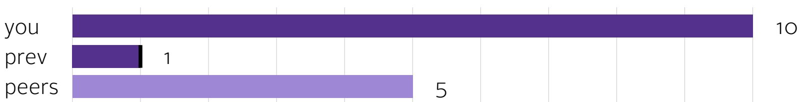
The average score for this section is 60.9. Your average score is 81. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

CEO works on the company and is able to remove from daily operations



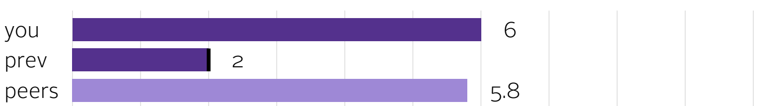
In this phase you work on your company to a large extent. That's very good. On to strong growth!

Have a mentor



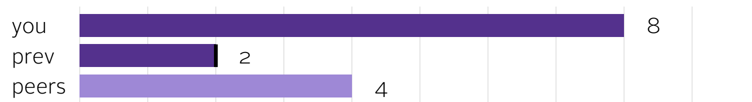
It can be difficult to see when you are stuck. Sometimes choices are a challenge, or you have simply reached the end of your tether. Maybe you need to change to guide the company to its next phase? Whatever it may be, this is where a mentor can be of great assistance. Great that you have a good mentor!

Have an entrepreneurial network



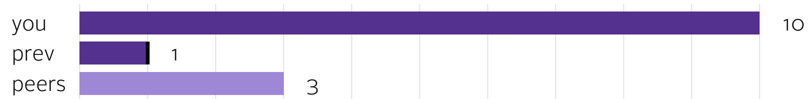
Most entrepreneurs experience the same challenges, highs and lows. Other entrepreneurs you know can often be of great assistance with their experiences. We recommend that you actively look for and invest more time in a good network of entrepreneurs.

Enjoy management of company



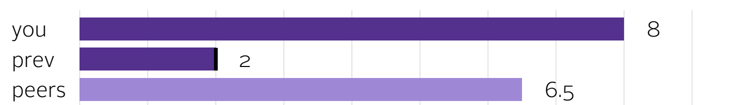
You like managing somewhat. That's handy because it looks like you are currently in the phase that requires a lot of management attention. You will have to increasingly focus on assembling a good management team.

Energized by team and company



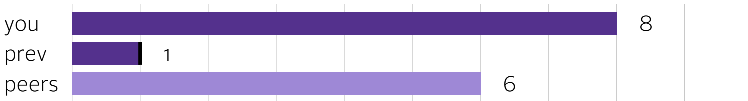
You still get energy from your company. That's great; use all this energy to let your company grow.

Absence of CEO is possible



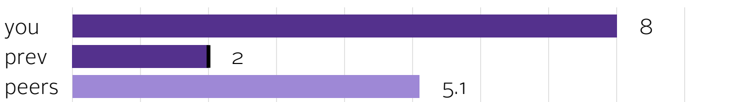
You can easily leave for three weeks without things going completely wrong. That's quite an accomplishment. You probably have an excellent team working for you, as well as standardized processes. That's a nice scalable model for growth.

Read business books



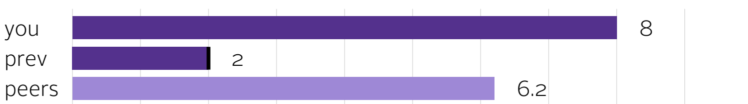
You occasionally read management books. That's great, because in order to grow it will be imperative to have skills, ideas and insights that were documented by others years ago. Keep reading; keep developing yourself.

Receives regular education



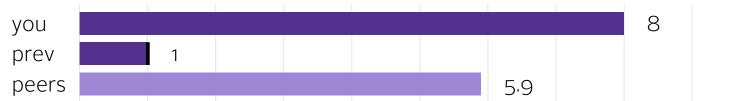
You occasionally attend external or internal training courses. That's very good. Self-development is fundamental for overall company development.

Healthy work - life balance



You have a reasonably good work-life balance. It is a challenge for many entrepreneurs to combine everything. Successful high-growth entrepreneurs teach us that we must always take good care of ourselves. You have got that under control; well done.

I am happy



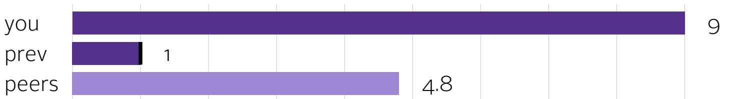
You are mostly happy. Congratulations! Long may it last!

You

INTERNAL COMMUNICATION

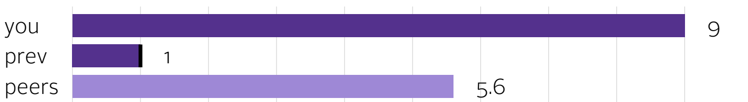
The average score for this section is 27.5. Your average score is 56. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

Employees know long term goal



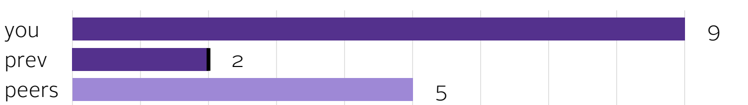
A long-term goal for the organization gives everyone a clear framework for strategy and decisions - and can be very motivating. Great that this is already all in place. Ensure you check this annually - verifying a valid long-term goal.

Employees know yearly goal



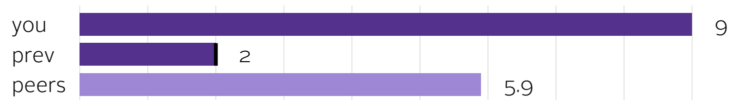
Focusing on goals, including annual goals, provides direction and a framework to your business activities. In addition, this information motivates your employees. Fantastic that everyone knows what the annual goal is. Well done!

Employees know quarterly/monthly goals



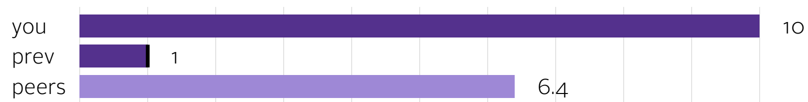
Focusing on goals, including monthly goals and KPIs, provides guidance and direction to business activities. Actually, you make a small sprint every month to ensure that you are "on schedule". The clearer the goal the clearer it becomes on how to achieve it. Great that you have got this all together. Well done.

Employees know vision and mission



As with the long-term goal - it is important for the company's vision and mission to be clear. This motivates employees and provides a clear framework for the activities. Good to see you have this together.

Employees know elevator pitch



You'd be surprised to hear the stories and answers you get to the question "What exactly does your company do?". It is a good idea to formulate a common language and text - and to practice together. You have this under control and that's great. Primarily, don't forget to check and polish occasionally.

We frequently have company-wide meetings

Research shows that it's crucial to communicate goals and performance to all employees, providing them with context regarding development. Face-to-face, with internal sessions works best. With internal sessions, in other words. You are already doing this, and frequently. Try to keep this up, even in the face of continued growth.

IN CONCLUSION

With a ScaleUp Score of 73, you are doing extremely well and are perhaps an example for others! However, in order to reach the next phase, there is still room for improvement. You scored highest on Internal communication and lowest on People. In comparison to other companies, in the same phase, you score higher on Internal communication and lower on People. Your biggest challenge - as you describe it - is "sustained growth". Hopefully this report will give you sufficient insight into how and where you and your organization can improve. Good luck and we hope to see you again for another Scaling Up Assessment in the future!

We would like to thank you for undergoing this Scaling Up Assessment.
