INTRODUCTION

Dear John CEOExec, this report will show findings in comparison to your peer group. Your peer group being companies that are of a similar size and in the same organizational phase.

Our understanding, however, is that almost all organizations undergo the same phases and challenges. It's usually when those challenges have been accomplished, with the right people in the right seats, implementing a clear strategy and execution design, with sufficient funds and ideal leadership that the organization is ready for further growth and Scaling Up.

Now let's turn to you. You are 55 years old, have been an entrepreneur for 25 years, have a 9 -year-old company. Your company is active in Consultancy, research and other business services. You have thus gained more entrepreneurial experience outside this company. You have 2 partners. This usually makes doing business easier, if you at least agree on the long-term goals and have a clear division of activities. You have 7 permanent employees in service and 2 temporary employees on contract. You have a sales goal of 11 million for this year. You have a healthy ratio between sales and number of employees. But perhaps (a part of) sales is based on trade sales.

As indicated, and given the number of employees, you are probably in the Pioneering phase. You as a founder/entrepreneur are also an actively involved foreman. There is a lot of creativity and energy. You spend a lot of time with your team and everyone knows what's going on. This is often an enormously creative and inspiring phase. The objective is above all to arrive at a clear choice of product, market and positioning strategy. When you make these often difficult choices, you can continue to grow.

For this year, your growth objective is 22% growth. For next year, your objective is 9%. You have a strong growth ambition for the year ahead. Other entrepreneurs within your peer group have an average growth ambition of 39.5%. You will get 10 % of your revenue from abroad. A part of your total sales is already comprised of international sales. That's good. This may be the right direction for continued growth. Further, you have the ambition to enter 5 new countries: that is an admirable goal that has the potential to considerably boost growth. This could boost your growth considerably.

What is the ScaleUp Score? The ScaleUp Score is based upon and calculated using all assessment items, including ambition and past growth. You gain bonus points if you perform well on challenges that rank highly in shaping your future growth. The maximum score is 100.

John CEOExec, your current ScaleUp Score is 107.

Your estimation: 50. The average Score for comparable companies is 53.1. So 0% of comparable companies score higher. As a (potential) growth company you are doing extremely well and are perhaps an example for others! However, in order to reach the next phase, there is still room for improvement, which is detailed in the following growth report.

YOUR PROFILE

We begin with an overview on the main sections. The score is a weighted average of the questions per section. Your results are compared with your peer group.

Leadership team and Strategy rank lowest.

What are Peers? Peers are companies with a comparable size who have preceeded you in taking the Scaling Up Assessment. The database contains thousands of other growth companies.

In comparison to your peers, your scores for Leadership team and Internal communication are relatively good. However, Finance and cash and Scalability, technology and innovation show a lower than average score.

PEERS AND COMPARISONS

Below you will find a comparison between outcomes in the ScaleUp Score between you and other entrepreneurs. You will find the average scores of entrepreneurs with specific characteristics (growth, company age, having a mentor, reading management books, the gender of the entrepreneur and a selection of companies in your own industry). You might stumble upon some interesting findings.

PEOPLE

People - without a doubt the key to success within your organization. Every management book, academic study and personal story relays the same message. So, in your case John CEOExec, let's ask that key question: Are all your employees happy and engaged in the business? And would you 'rehire' all of them?

The success and scalability of your organization is mainly determined by the success that you have recruiting, training, involving, motivating and growing the best people you can find. And this can never be based on luck. Real success is based upon a philosophy around people, core values, the company culture, introduction program, continuous training and reward.

Note on reading the tables on the following pages

In the team score, the dark bar is the lowest score, the light bar is the highest score. The black stripe is the average score of the leadership team members. The number is the average score.

People

Companies that nail this are usually the winners in their industry. Let's take a look at how you compare:

YOUR EMPLOYEES

The average score for this section is 47.3. Your average score is 80. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

Effective recruitment process

In order to grow, you continuously need new - and good - people. This is often one of the most important challenges for a growth entrepreneur. You indicate that when it comes to finding new employees you are very successful. That's great! This probably has to do with the time and attention you give this and your network. Try to keep this up when you continue to grow.

High staff retention

Your employee turnover is very little / none. Unwanted turnover is often a sign that processes, strategy or management are not in order. It takes an enormous amount of money and effort to continually find and train new employees. This is not a problem for you. That's a good sign. Keep a close eye on this when you start or continue to grow.

Onboarding program

Employees receive a comprehensive onboarding program at your company. That's good, because a well-thought-out onboarding program will be an enormous help to employees with regard to learning their jobs, becoming familiar with the company's core values and getting to know their coworkers. It will also help with further scaling up your company. So keep it up.

People

Measuring employee satisfaction

You already measure employee satisfaction. That's remarkable for a relatively small company and a good thing! After all, measuring is knowing.

Positive about re-hiring employees

You would hire all of your current employees again. Congratulations, that's really great. You have worked on your hiring and development policy. Keep it up!

Every employee has a training plan

Management thinker Tom Peters stated in his latest book 'one of the greatest responsibilities of an employer nowadays is the continuous development of employees'. In fast growing companies, roles are continuously changing, the need for training and education is therefore imperative. You have already implemented this. Tom would be proud.

People

Outsourcing / Offshoring operations

You are very active with offshoring or outsourcing, this strategy is completely depending on your product/service, cost and scaling strategy.

We apply flat-management or self-steering/organizing teams

You have fully implemented a new management model. Well done, we hope it will help you scale and grow.

People

COMPANY CULTURE

The average score for this section is 31.4. Your average score is 50. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

We have Core values

Core values are the internal 'rules of the game'. It's essential to have this very clear if you start growing quickly, but in small organizations it's often not yet necessary to make this explicit. But at least you are clear on this. Try to critically examine the core values on a regular basis. A lot always changes in a small organization.

We have focus on customers' needs

Growth often creates increased management attention to internal matters, employees, new premises, computer systems, etc. The most rapidly growing and successful companies keep a sharp focus on the continuously (changing) needs of the customer. You have that completely under control. Keep it up, even during your next growth phases.

Employees know core values

You have formulated core values, and your employees know all of them well and act accordingly. That's really a job well done. Keep this very clear when you continue to grow into the next phase.

We are transparent

Transparency of information (about customers, sales, goals, growth, etc.) produces greater employee involvement. In addition, it often prevents internal "politics". You are already doing very well in this area. Keep it up!

We have a positive and healthy culture

"Culture eats Strategy for breakfast" is a famous quote from management guru Peter Drucker. The outside world is changing rapidly, but a positive and healthy culture in which employees take responsibility, think along and always act in the interest of the company is therefore an enormous "asset". You still have a small business and you have a strong and healthy culture, make sure you stick to it as you grow further.

Strategy

Articulating a clear and differential strategy, supported by a strong core culture that can deliver on the brand's promises, is the key for any company that wants to scale up. So how do you know if you have this industry dominating strategy? Sustainable top-line revenue growth and an increasing gross margin are the two key financial indicators. If you don't have a killer strategy your company will slowly face continuous pricing pressures as the market commoditizes your products and services.

John CEOExec, to have such a strong and effective strategy, it is key that the leadership team has a system and process to devote time and attention to this. A strong strategy needs a very clear and compelling vision and long term goal (BHAG). It needs to be specific and clear on which clients you want to service, how you will be unique and that your competences are clearly aligned with that goal. You then need clear measureable (non financial) yearly and quarterly goals. And a process needs to be in place to review and discuss trends and information from employees, clients and the market in general. Information on competition, technologies and potential disrupters needs to be part of the periodic strategic assessment.

And a strategy works best when all employees know it, understand it and are motivated by it.

Let's look at your results.

Strategy

GOALS AND STRATEGY

The average score for this section is 34.9. Your average score is 70. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

We have formulated a long term (non-financial) goal

You have formulated a long-term goal. That's great, because a long-term goal provides direction and context and above all motivation for all employees. Companies that do this effectively are at an enormous advantage. Try keeping this "alive" and repeating it as much as possible.

We have formulated yearly goals

You have the process of measurable annual goals well under control. That's good news. The clearer and more measurably you formulate your goals (both financially and organizationally or with regard to product or market development), the higher the chance that you will also achieve those goals. Keep it up!

We have formulated quarterly/ monthly goals (other than financial goals)

You have the process of monthly and quarterly goals entirely under your thumb. That's good, because the fastest growers are very disciplined in this process.

We work with a strategic plan

You have a well-thought-out business plan and are working with it; that's super! Establishing your goals, strategy and action plan can bring about a lot of clarity and teach you to anticipate certain challenges. That's the right approach to growing!

Each employee has personalized goals

You have fully and properly implemented goals at the employee level. That's great! You will have noticed that this creates clarity, commitment, personal responsibility and motivation.

We have implemented a growth methodology

You have already fully implemented a growth methodology, that is remarkable for the phase where your company is in. That will create a strong foundation for scaling up. Well done

Strategy

We have an active acquisitions strategy

It's exceptional and interesting that in a company of your size you are already making acquisitions. Hopefully you are able to absorb and integrate. The largest challenges usually present themselves in different company cultures.

Execution

EXECUTION

Execution is, in many organizations, the biggest challenge. Where most entrepreneurs have a natural passion for clients, product development and innovation, many of them lack the skills and intrinsic motivation for a flawless and scalable execution. Execution and operations are broad areas and its success is dependent from many factors. But let us first distinguish leadership and management. As the entrepreneur of the organization, the focus lies on leadership, with the key objective being emotional involvement in the long and short term vision of the company across all employees. Management however is focused on process. The right people doing the right things right. And do all processes run without drama and drive industry-leading profitability? The entrepreneur does not have to be the person to manage this. An operations director, COO, or well functioning management team are, in many situations, the critical people to get this right.

Execution success is dependent on many factors. A well functioning leadership team, with a disciplined process and rhythm for prioritization and goalsetting. Clear KPIs, measurement systems, a process for employee and client feedback. Automation and digitalization of primary and secondary processes and so on.

We have put the sales and marketing function also in this chapter, as we see the systematic organization of these processes as part of the execution.

OK, let's see how you scored:

Execution

LEADERSHIP TEAM

The average score for this section is 18.1. Your average score is 40. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

Tasks are properly allocated

You have already set up an efficient team. However, you should not make the mistake of only making your original employees leaders. Keep thinking about how best to shape your leadership team, also with a view to the future.

We have weekly management meetings.

You have set leadership meetings. That's good. You should still try to use the weekly meeting for making decisions together and monitoring progress.

We have periodic strategic sessions.

Your longer-term planning is in order; that's a good start for accelerating growth.

Leadership team receives regular training

The members of your management team receive regular training or education. That's good, because when you grow, everything is constantly changing. Continuous learning is important in this case.

Execution

OPERATIONAL PROCESSES

The average score for this section is 27.9. Your average score is 50. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

Our goals are translated into clear KPIs

You have already translated your goals into measurable indicators. That's great; this is an important step towards creating personal accountability and professionalizing processes. This includes numbers of leads, received applications, IT development, etc. This can be especially important if you grow, in order to keep everything under control.

We use real-time data to measure our performance

Wow, you already have a system in place where you can see exactly how far you have come in achieving your short-term goals. That's great; you'll definitely need this in your next growth phase.

We grow with limited mistakes, errors and problems

You have things well under control. You make extremely few "error costs." Do ensure that your processes also run flawlessly if you start to grow. This is not often the case.

We measure customer satisfaction

You are already systematically measuring your customers' satisfaction. That's great; keep the results alive and try to act on the input you get as proactively as possible.

We have systematic processes for continuous improvement

You have an effective quality system, and that's great. This will be a massive advantage for you whilst the company continues to grow, as mistakes will be prevented and adjustments made directly based on customer feedback.

Execution

SALES AND MARKETING

The average score for this section is 31.9. Your average score is 50. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

We have an effective lead generation process

You already have an effective lead generation process in place. That's great! An effective system and process is essential for continued rapid growth. Well done.

Sales achievement

Having and achieving targets is, of course, the basis for business success and growth. At successful companies this correlation is no coincidence. The sales process will often consist of a combination of targets, bonus schemes, lead generation as well as weekly meetings, coaching, training, motivational sessions, etc. You have this process well under control, so you are all set for further growth.

Weekly sales meeting

You have a disciplined sales process with weekly meetings. That's great. You will have noticed that sharing successes and lessons learned, alongside maintaining a focused team, allows for a stronger grip on the sales funnel. That's an ideal foundation for continued growth.

Head of sales is not the entrepreneur

You have made someone else responsible for sales. This seems like a good choice, since now sales is no longer "an additional task" for you as an entrepreneur. But be careful! Your best salesperson may not necessarily be a good (sales) manager.

We have an effective PR/communication strategy

Nowadays sales and marketing strategies are usually accompanied with an effective content-based communication strategy. You have already implemented this fully. Well done, this probably will create growth opportunities.

Execution

SCALABILITY, TECHNOLOGY AND INNOVATION

The average score for this section is 39.6. Your average score is 60. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

Most processes are automated

Most processes are already being supported by automated systems at your company. Sales, marketing, project management, production, human resources, reporting, etc. This gives structure and clarity, prevents mistakes and makes growing a lot easier. Congratulations, on to the next growth phase!

Systems prepped for growth

When you grow, a lot changes at the same time: systems, structures, people, processes, etc. It's great that you already have the systems that can handle this. Keep growing!

Better systems than competitors

Many fast growers have invested in information technology systems that help them be better, smarter, more efficient and more market-oriented than their competitors. It looks like that you pay the same attention to IT systems and have superior systems compared to your competitors. How can you continue to exploit this advantage? And how you can hold on to this lead?

Knowledge on latest technology

As an entrepreneur, you always have 1001 focus areas. You keep a good eye on technological developments that could enormously affect your business model or company efficiency. This is a safe situation. No surprises.

We are more innovative than competitors

You are more active with innovations than your competitors. That's good. Perhaps you can constantly stay ahead of the market?

Our business model is disruptive

You have a disruptive business model. That's gold. Speed and Scaling Up are now fundamental in conquering most of your market.

Cash

FINANCE AND CASH

Growth sucks cash. This is the first law of entrepreneurial gravity. Yet many company leaders pay more attention to revenue and profit than they do to cash. And usually a company needs to be in severe cash crisis before predictive systems are implemented and the business model is optimized to be cash rich.

So the key question is: Do you have consistent cash sources, ideally internally generated, to fuel business growth?

Let's see how your are doing compared to your peers:

Cash

FINANCE AND CASH

The average score for this section is 39. Your average score is 50. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

Real time financial insights

You have a good picture of sales and costs. No surprises for you. Compliments.

Up-to-date cashflow planning

You have a perfect picture of your own cash flow; congratulations. This allows you to grow safely.

Access to growth capital

You have good access to growth capital. That's encouraging, especially if you want to grow. Growth always gobbles up cash. Also think about all the alternatives, such as friends/fools/family, the bank, factoring, SME bonds, crowd funding, angel investors, private equity, Government Funding, etc.). There are a lot of service providers who can help you with this.

Financial alert function

You indicate that your "early warning system" for financial parameters is perfectly in order. The faster you can intervene or take measures, the better.

Leadership understands balance sheet

Reading and understanding a balance sheet appears to be a tricky thing for many entrepreneurs. But not for you. You understand that a balance sheet can be a smart blueprint that can expose the dynamics and growth potential behind your company.

You

YOU

Peter Drucker nailed it: "The Bottleneck is always on top of the bottle". We mentioned that people are the most critical factor in defining a company's success. We lied. It is, in fact, you, the entrepreneur, founder and leader. Therefore, the responsibility lies with this person in recruitment, motivation, training and overall involvement ensuring the business reaches a higher level.

In other words, your ambition level, energy, speeches, involvement and example behavior are the real key to scaling up. Interestingly, your behavior needs to adapt to cater for each new organizational phase. This requires growth and development from you, as the leader too. Continuously identifying what the organization needs from you. This starts with moving from working 'in' your company to working 'at' your company and usually ends with making sure that you let your professional management run the operations so you can build the organization even further.

Within this process one of the key areas of success is the level in which you involve your employees in the company vision and goals. Hence why we stress the importance of internal communication.

To continuously grow as a leader is challenging. Having a mentor or coach can be extremely beneficial in setting you on the right leadership development trajectory. Successful leaders are happy, have a good work-life balance, read a lot and learn from other entrepreneurs. Note, it is about the decisions you take, not the time that you put in.

John CEOExec, let's look at your results. We see that you have 25 years experience as an entrepreneur and that you have 2 partner(s) in your business.

You

YOUR LEADERSHIP

The average score for this section is 60.9. Your average score is 100. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

CEO works on the company and is able to remove from daily operations

In this phase you work fully on your company. That's excellent. On to strong growth!

Have a mentor

It can be difficult to see when you are stuck. Sometimes choices are a challenge, or you have simply reached the end of your tether. Maybe you need to change to guide the company to its next phase? Whatever it may be, this is where a mentor can be of great assistance. Great that you have a good mentor!

Have an entrepreneurial network

Most entrepreneurs experience the same challenges, highs and lows. Other entrepreneurs you know can often be of great assistance with their experiences. You have an effective network of entrepreneurs that you can consult; well done.

Enjoy management of company

You like managing. That's handy because if your company has eight or more employees, you will have to continually develop these skills.

Energized by team and company

You still get energy from your company. That's great; use all this energy to let your company grow.

Absence of CEO is possible

You can easily leave for three weeks without things going wrong. That's quite an accomplishment. You probably have an excellent team working for you, as well as standardized processes. Your next challenge is being away for three months; then you'll really have built an independent organization.

You

Read business books

You read management books on a regular basis. That's great, because in order to grow - and for your next growth phase - it will be imperative to have skills, ideas and insights that were documented by others years ago. Keep reading; keep developing yourself.

Receives regular education

You attend external education or training courses on a regular basis. That's very good. Self-development is fundamental for overall company development.

Healthy work - life balance

You have a good work-life balance. It is a challenge for many entrepreneurs to combine everything. Successful high-growth entrepreneurs teach us that we must always take good care of ourselves. You have got that under control; good job.

I am happy

You are entirely happy. Congratulations! Long may it last!

You

INTERNAL COMMUNICATION

The average score for this section is 27.5. Your average score is 60. Therefore, on average you are doing better than your peer group.

Employees know long term goal

A long-term goal for the organization gives everyone a clear framework for strategy and decisions - and can be very motivating. Great that this is already all in place. Ensure you check this annually - verifying a valid long-term goal.

Employees know yearly goal

Focusing on goals, including annual goals, provides direction and a framework to your business activities. In addition, this information motivates your employees. Fantastic that everyone knows what the annual goal is. Well done!

Employees know quarterly/monthly goals

Focusing on goals, including monthly goals and KPIs, provides guidance and direction to business activities. Actually, you make a small sprint every month to ensure that you are "on schedule". The clearer the goal the clearer it becomes on how to achieve it. Great that you have already got this all together in this phase. Well done.

Employees know vision and mission

As with the long-term goal - it is important for the company's vision and mission to be clear. This motivates employees and provides a clear framework for the activities. Good to see that you have already got this all together in your phase.

Employees know elevator pitch

You'd be surprised to hear the stories and answers you get to the question "What exactly does your company do?". It is a good idea to formulate a common language and text - and to practice together. You have this under control and that's great. Primarily, don't forget to check and polish occasionally.

We frequently have company-wide meetings

Research shows that it's crucial to communicate goals and performance to all employees, providing them with context regarding development. Face-to-face, with internal sessions works best. With internal sessions, in other words. You are already doing this, and frequently. Try to keep this up, even in the face of continued growth.

IN CONCLUSION

With a ScaleUp Score of 107, you are doing extremely well and are perhaps an example for others! However, in order to reach the next phase, there is still room for improvement. You scored highest on Leadership team and lowest on Leadership team. In comparison to other companies, in the same phase, you score higher on Leadership team and lower on Finance and cash. Your biggest challenge - as you describe it - is "gcdfnhbvn". Hopefully this report will give you sufficient insight into how and where you and your organization can improve. Good luck and we hope to see you again for another Scaling Up Assessment in the future!
